News in Brief

California Will Soon Sell Generic Version of Narcan

Governor Newsom recently announced that California will soon be selling its own generic version of Narcan that will be approximately 40% cheaper than the market rate. Amneal Pharmaceuticals will sell naloxone to the state for $24 per pack and the state plans to give away many of the packs for free to first responders, universities and community organizations. They also intend to sell the packs at a discounted rate to California businesses such as entertainment centers, ride-share services and restaurants to expand the distribution beyond public health departments. The naloxone nasal spray is the best attempt at reversing opioid overdoses caused by heroin, fentanyl and oxycodone. Opioid overdose deaths in California have doubled since 2019, with increasing numbers affecting the Valley as fentanyl presence in other drugs has increased.

Rantz & Ravez from Dennis P. Zine

Here we go again…another series of crimes and violence in the City of the Angels….and fewer officers available to handle the calls for service. How safe are you in Los Angeles?

Violent and other serious crimes have become a major concern in and around many Los Angeles neighborhoods and beyond. The 88 cities that comprise Los Angeles County are where we regularly read articles of criminals committing a variety of crimes ranging from murder and rape to GTA and smash and grab at retail stores; including the small mom and pop stores that put increased pressure on law enforcement agencies to address the rising crime trends and put an end to them. This is a very difficult task for law enforcement agencies with the continuing shrinking number of law enforcement personnel sworn to protect and serve the people of their respective jurisdictions. From the uniform officers in marked patrol cars to the detectives and other members of the law enforcement agencies, the ranks continue to fall month after month.

Couple this troubling situation with George Gascón who is the most NEGLIGENT and INEFFECTIVE District Attorney in Los Angeles County history, it is no secret why the situation is only getting worse as the weeks and months pass in the sprawling City of Los Angeles and other communities within the larger region of Los Angeles County.

Mayor Karen Bass' official city residence was recently the most publicized residential burglary crime scene in Los Angeles when a suspect broke a window and entered the residence while the Mayor and family members were inside the home. Yes, the Mayor of Los Angeles was victimized by a residential burglar early Sunday morning while she was at her official Mayor's residence with family members including a child. The alarm at the residence was activated and multiple units were dispatched Code 3 to the residence. The investigation quickly resulted with the arrest of a suspect who has a violent criminal arrest history. The suspect could have caused major injuries to the mayor and members of her family including a young child if the alarm was not activated and units were ready and available to respond to the location. The availability of patrol units to respond to calls for service is often impacted by the lack of units that are available and clear to respond. This situation only gets worse with the current and continuing lack of patrol officers and fewer personnel entering the police academy. Reality has finally set in for the mayor who has reduced the target number of officers she is recruiting to the department in the next fiscal year. Now that the Mayor has been the victim of a home burglary for the second time, she is well aware of what hazards exist living in the City of Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, California comes in at #17 in the list of most expensive cities in the U.S. You would have to make nearly $54 an hour to live comfortably.

What is the cost of living in the city of Los Angeles vs other cities in the USA? Where can you afford to live?

A recent report listed the cost of living in various cities across America. New York is the number one most expensive city. You would have to earn near $67 an hour to live comfortably. Your annual salary would be just shy of $140,000 a year.

The second city is San Jose, California. You would have to make nearly $66 an hour to live comfortably.

The third city is Irvine, California. You would have to make near $61 an hour to live comfortably.

The forth city is Santa Ana, California. You would have to make near $61 an hour to live comfortably.

The fifth city is Boston, Massachusetts. You would have to make near $61 an hour to live comfortably.

Los Angeles, California comes in at #17. You would have to make nearly $54 an hour to live comfortably. Additionally, a family of two working adults with two children would need a salary of $276,557 to live comfortably.

With all the crime and violence in Los Angeles, why would anyone choose to live here? The weather is good for the most part. Other than that, we encounter terrible and congested local roads and freeways, homeless camps scattered throughout the city, high taxes, expensive apartment rents, gasoline prices approaching $6 a gallon and a host of other expenses that cause many people to move to less expensive places to live in America.

The never-ending concern for passenger safety on the Metro Bus and Rail Transit lines.

Another murder on the Metro train at the Universal City Station has hit the headline news. A lady was brutally murdered while riding the Metro train home from work. This tragic death has once again brought attention to security and safety while using public transportation in Los Angeles.

While Metro attempts to promote passenger safety on Metro property, bus and rail lines, the crime stats tell another story. According to a published report crimes reported on MTA properties increased 65% since 2020 and, between March 2023 and February 2024, average monthly violent crimes on MTA properties rose more that 15%. The statistics only reveal the incidents that are reported. You can assume that many crimes are not reported for a variety of reasons. So, if you think you are safe on the MTA public transportation network think again. My suggestion is to keep

Tourism in the Valley for Visitors and Businesses

By Miri Rossitto

With summer just a couple of months away, everyone's already planning trips and vacations with their families. When it comes to tourism, the San Fernando Valley houses its fair share of destination spots. From theme parks to museums to one of the oldest tiki bars in Los Angeles, tourists can find something that slakes their thirst for adventure and wanderlust. There is no shortage of things to do in "The Valley" despite its reputation of being a Los Angeles adjacent suburb.

Universal Studios Hollywood

You can find one of California's major theme parks, Universal Studios Hollywood and Universal CityWalk, in the San Fernando Valley— Universal City to be precise. A 15-minute drive to Burbank from Universal Studios—depending on traffic—takes you to the Warner Brothers Studios where you can take a tour and explore popular sets, props, and costumes from Friends, the DC Universe, Harry Potter, and more. You can even visit the WB Water Tower—home of the famous Animaniacs.

Valley Relics Museum

If theme parks are not your thing, don't worry! The Valley offers unique museums like The Valley Relics Museum in Lake Balboa, the Galpin Auto Sports Museum in Van Nuys, The Mystic Museum in Burbank, Campo de Cahuenga in Studio City, and The Nethercutt Museum in Sylmar. Apart from museums, you'll find other interesting destinations like the Wat Thai Temple in North Hollywood, The Japanese Garden in Lake Balboa, and the Log Cabin Mercantile in Chatsworth. You might even be inclined to stop by and grab a delicious (and potent) drink at one of Los Angeles' oldest tiki bars, Tonga Hut (established in 1958) in North Hollywood.

The combination of these attractions and summer as a peak travel season presents local businesses with the opportunity to attract and benefit from the influx of tourists and visitors to The Valley. More visitors equate to a much-needed boost to the local economy. As a business owner, the smart move is to plan and prepare ahead. Here are some marketing strategies you can deploy for maximum results:

Create tourist-friendly packages. Partner with local hotels, local attractions, or hospitality services to offer discounts to tourists. Collaborate with other local businesses to create packages useful to tourists like buy a cup of coffee from your coffee shop and get a discount on a lunch special at a neighboring restaurant.

Participate in local tourist boards or chambers of commerce. Get to know your audience. Partner with your local chamber of commerce for an opportunity to know about events and activities beforehand and to participate in them.

Focus social media campaigns on regional attractions. Identify key attractions in your area and utilize your proximity and the appeal of the attraction to create social media posts. Share captivating images and videos capturing the beauty of the destination as well as the local culture. Tie it all in with the significance of your business to the overall experience.

The key to leveraging these strategies is exceptional customer service and creating memorable experiences. As a business owner, your goal is to encourage repeat visits and word-of-mouth recommendations from visitors who spent time and resources to enjoy their vacation or time off in the San Fernando Valley.

SFV Master Chorale to Present "Dreamscapes" May 18

The San Fernando Valley Master Chorale under the direction of Charlie Kim will present "Dreamscapes," a musical voyage to the stars, on Saturday, May 18, at 3 pm.

Escape reality for an hour with a soothing sound bath of vocal harmonies in a reverberant acoustic as the San Fernando Valley Master Chorale takes a musical journey to the most outer reaches of the imagination. Let your mind and heart wander as the music takes you from day to night, from earth to sky, to heaven and beyond, and back again. Come an hour early for a talk-back with the conductors to explore some of the greatest poetry ever written to prepare for the musical settings that take the poetry to even greater heights. Come, listen, and be healed.

"The concept of Dreamscapes was inspired by the space where the concert will be performed," noted Kim. Now known as Vida Church, the round dome-shaped building in North Hills, nicknamed "The Onion," was constructed in 1964 and designated a Los Angeles Historic-Cultural Monument in 2009. The interior sound has an echo that lasts three to five seconds, making it perfectly suited for live acoustic music performance, particularly singing.

"The music chosen for the concert takes full advantage of the very live acoustics, creating an ethereal sound for the audience to ponder and enjoy. The poetry of the music takes a journey from day to night, from sleep to dreams, and from our innermost thoughts to the outermost reaches of space and back again."

The concert will be held at Vida Church, 9550 Haskell Avenue in North Hills. For tickets vist sfvmc.com.

HEALTH & BEAUTY

The New Old Age: A Blessing or a Curse?

By Sandy Rosenholz

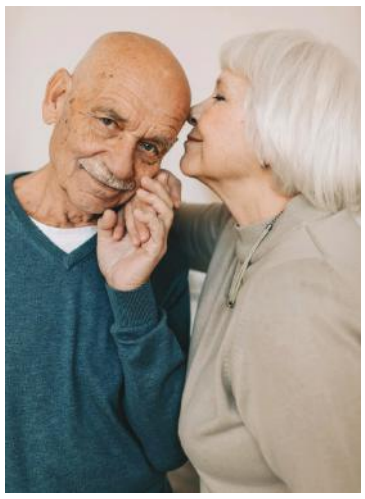
Today's senior is living decades longer than their parents did, benefiting from a higher level of medical care and healthier living practices.

However, depending on your finances and overall health, living well into your golden years can either be a blessing or a curse.

When aging is only about deciding which active senior facility to move into or where to go on your next trip, it is just another life transition. However, for those with a physical illness, disability or dementia, which includes one out of every six women and one out of every 10 men who live past the age of 55, living longer can be a curse.

It's a bigger burden when finances are an issue, lowering the level of care. And, may be further impacted if the federal government doesn't find a viable solution for Social Security and Medicare.

My mother was one of the lucky ones. She lived a long and wonderful life and collected Social Security for 30 years. My guess is that in 1933 when the program was initiated by Congress, our legislators did not anticipate that the life span would increase to such a degree.



Senior care is a bigger burden when finances are an issue, lowering the level of care.

So, how much does it cost to age in Los Angeles?

What you spend on your care depends on your abilities, your finances and the type of care you need or desire. Here is how it all breaks down:

Hourly non-medical companion care (in-home care) costs $25.00/hour and will increase to $33.60/hour by 2029, $45.15/hour by 2039, and $60.68/hour by 2049.

On an annual basis those numbers are $57,200, $76,608, $103,303.20, and $138.350.40, respectively. For the senior living on Social Security, that's a fortune!

Assisted living (one bedroom/one person) is less but includes no assistance, costing $48,000 now, $64,512 (2029), $86,688 (2038), and $116,578 (2049).

Adult day care has an annual cost of $18,720 (2019) and will rise to $25,188 (2029), $33,816 (2039) and $45,444 (2049).

For those who require skilled nursing, rehabilitation or a nursing home, the costs will skyrocket. Currently the bill for these services is $88,292 annually. It will rise to $120,000 (2029), $161,268 (2039), and $216,732 (2049).

To find out more about our senior care choices, call Sandy Rosenholz, owner of Senior Resources, Inc. at 818-359-2125, email SR@SeniorResourcesCA.com or visit his website, SeniorResourcesCA.com.

Upcoming elections, world politics, work responsibilities, home commitments…the list is seemingly never-ending when it comes to factors that cause stress at any given moment. Frankly, it can all become overwhelming. To shut out the noise of the world, and find a bit of inner calm, health professionals urge individuals to incorporate meditation into their routine. Don't have time or don't know where to start? Below are seven tips for beginners on how to find a moment of calm:

1. Find a spot that is comfortable to you whether that be sitting cross-legged on the floor, lounging in your favorite chair or lying down in bed. The only thing that matters is that you're in a fairly quiet and distraction-free spot.

2. Focus on your breathing, noticing if your inhales and exhales cause your chest to rise up and down or if your breathing is heavily concentrated in your nostrils rather than your mouth. Center in on a specific spot to gaze at and tune into your breath.

3. While turning off your thoughts is nearly impossible, try to filter out the unnecessary chatter. Make an effort to bring your thoughts back to the current moment, focusing on your breath, rather than your grocery list, emails, etc. It is natural for your mind to wander so acknowledge those thoughts and try to return back to being in the present moment.

4. With busy schedules, not everyone has the time to commit to fully meditating for a select period of time. If you find yourself overwhelmed, you can incorporate the "STOP" method which stands for stop what you're doing, take a breath, observe without judgement and proceed. It's a quick moment to check in with yourself, do an internal scan and continue on with your day with a bit more awareness.

5. The more you meditate, the more you can reap the benefits. To stay consistent, experts suggest scheduling in meditation as you would a workout or a coffee meetup with a friend. If it's a consistent time in your schedule, you are more likely to stick with it.

6. Those that need extra guidance or are looking for a specific kind of meditation should utilize a meditation app. With a myriad of options, you can learn new techniques, practice different moments of gratitude or simply find soothing sounds that help you better get into a place of peace.

7. Yet, perhaps the most important part of starting meditation is to give yourself grace and patience. Focus on the small wins and don't pressure yourself to the point where meditation becomes a hassle more than a helpful tool. Find a way to focus on your well-being that works for you, your schedule and your mind.

Nighttrek Report: What to See in the May Sky

By Neill Simmons

The highlight of this month is the Eta Aquarlid Meteor Shower on Sunday and Monday night, May 4 and 5. The meteor shower goes on all night until dawn the next day. Stay warm and try to get out of the city lights. The earliest record of a meteor shower was found on a stone tablet in Persia in 36 BC.

The full "Flower Moon" on May 23 is an usually a beautiful sight. This month it is even better thanks to the famous red star, Antares, which will be near the full Moon all night long. This is called a conjunction when two celestial objects appear to be next to each other. Within the movement of the night sky, conjunctions happens regularly.

The constellation, Ursa Major, better known as the Big Dipper, is still high in the north. The two brightest stars in the bowl point to the North Star, Polaris. Polaris is not the brightest star in the sky, but it is the only star that doesn't move and stays at true north, which is why is it used for directional assistance.

The Great Total Solar Eclipse of April 2024 was one for the books. Most of the country had cloud covering which cleared right before the start of the eclipse. If you didn't see this one, mark your calendars for the next one on August 12, 2026. This total solar eclipse begins in Greenland, travels across Iceland, moves towards Ireland and ends in Spain. Most people have seen a partial eclipse but it doesn't compare to the total eclipse experience. Put it on your "bucket list!"

Comets are like cats – they have tails and do precisely what they want! There is a comet coming around the Sun which might be visible later in the month. Look low on the western horizon on the 30 and 31 of May. Binoculars will help you spot it just after sunset.

If you are up around 5 am on May 9, look east to see the planet Mercury. It is bright but very small. Mercury is the first planet from the Sun and the smallest in the Solar System. It is named after the Roman god Mercurius, god of commerce and communication, and the messenger of the gods. Mercury travels around the Sun in 88 days.

Comets are like cats – they have tails and do precisely what they want! There is a comet coming around the Sun which might be visible later in the month. Look low on the western horizon on the 30 and 31 of May.

In NASA news, the Voyager I probe is sending back messages. Impressively, it has been in space since 1977 and is a staggering 15 billion miles from Earth. Voyager's communications take about 22 hours to be picked up by NASA.

On Saturday, May 18, the Griffith Park Observatory will be holding a FREE Star Party on the front lawn. This event begins at dusk and ends at 10 pm. There will be many telescopes to see the night sky. The National Park system is also holding a FREE stargazing party. Check NPS.gov for further information. The night sky at the Grand Canyon star party would be a great place for seeing stars clearly.

Vandenberg Space Force Base plans to launch over 10 rockets in May! Keep in mind that very frequently launches are changed or canceled at the last minute so check their website for exact days and times often.

When not stargazing, Neill Simmons is a Wealth Advisor with LPL Financial in Woodland Hills. If you have any astronomy or financial questions, he may be reached at (818) 936-2626 or emailed at neill.simmons@lpl.com.

It is interesting to note that Metro is working on providing additional protection for the operators of the transit lines. Metro might consider providing additional security for the passengers who use the Metro bus and train system. Something like letting the law 3nforcement officers do their job of enforcing the law rather than smiling and NOT ENFORCING the "Code of Conduct" rules on the transit lines.

It is noted and not well publicized that Gina Osborn, the MTA's chief security officer, was recently FIRED after she reported "Safety Issues."

Dennis P. Zine is the author of RantZ and RaeveZ. He is retired from law enforcement and remains a Reserve Officer. Zine served on the L.A. City Council for 12 years.
