News in Brief

Turns Out - Phase II Fire Clean Up is NOT Free!

All the press coverage and written materials about the Phase II debris removal from the Palisades Fire continually refer to it as "free." In reality, the County of Los Angeles will bill a resident's insurance policy for the work done by the Army Corps of Engineers. This payment will not be taken from rebuild coverage. According to a representative from Supervisor Lindsey Horvath's office, the County has contracted with the Army Corps and monies collected will be passed to them. "The County will not profit from this," they stressed, also adding, "I've been trying to get 'free' removed from all the coverage." If a resident does not have debris removal coverage through insurance, there will be no charge. Residents can also opt to do the removal at their own expense.

Local WWII Vet Passes at 102

World War II veteran, West Hills resident and member of the Wings Over Wendy's veterans' group Ethel Margolin passed away Tuesday morning at the age of 102. During WWII she worked in factories as one of the original "Rosie the Riveters." In 1944 she enlisted in the Armed Forces in the Women's Army Corps working at Air Transport Command. She was attending WOW meetings until a few weeks ago. A service is scheduled this Saturday, February 2, at 2:30 pm at Mount Sinai, 5950 Forest Lawn Drive. A reception follows at 5 pm at the American Legion Post 826, 5320 Fallbrook Avenue, Woodland Hills.

Battle of the Bands Sunday at Canyon Club

The Foundation for Las Virgenes Schools is presenting their third annual Battle of the Bands this Sunday, February 2. Local bands will perform, including for the first year an elementary school band from Round Meadow School, as well as LVUSD's Superintendant Dr. Dan Stepenosky's own band. The event will be held at the Canyon Club, 28912 Roadside Drive, Agoura, from 2 to 5 pm. General admission tickets are $40; children and students $15. Tickets are available at thefoundationlvs.org.

Community Members Give Fire Station the Gift of Rest

After weeks of devastating fires and relentless measures from firefighters to protect neighborhoods, the community responded in kind. Local stations were inundated with donations, food drop-offs and handmade cards from kids giving thanks for their unrelenting efforts. At Encino Station #83, perhaps the biggest thanks for their tireless firefighting was the gift of rest.

Upon hearing that the mattresses at Station #83 were approximately 20 years old, a team of community members coordinated to refresh the station's sleeping quarters. After all, with unpredictable hours and rotating station assignments, the least of one's problems should be an uncomfortable bed.

Lucie Volotzky, owner of Blissful Sleep/Beds Unlimited, provided at cost 11 mattresses and a bundle of new pillows in a community effort supported by donors Waltona Manion of Manion and Associates, Diana Duenas of the Gelb Group, Rickey Gelb, Patricia Bates, Encino-based Honest Dermatology owners Melissa and Michael Brown, Sue DuBrin, Cowe Communications CEO Miri Rossitto, Fernando Foundation board member Mark Levinson and Encino Enterprise publisher Kathleen Sterling. Additionally, over two dozen new sheet sets donated by Sterling and a group of her friends were dropped off with the new mattresses.

While approximately 97% of the LAFD budget covers salaries and benefits, only 3% is left for stations to utilize for essential equipment, repairs, station maintenance, etc. Much like

Rantz & Ravez from Dennis P. Zine

Here's a personal perspective of the deadly, historic and tragic Palisades Fire and frantic 100-mph windstorm that killed innocent people and destroyed thousands of homes, cars and commercial properties and left countless families without a place to live or clothes to wear or any form of security in LAPD's West Los Angeles Division.

West L. A. then and now after the fire…Will it ever return to the beautiful and peaceful paradise that overlooks the Pacific Ocean?

It was 1969 and I was a rookie LAPD Officer assigned to the West L A Police Division located on Purdue Avenue south of Santa Monica Blvd. The vintage police station was aging and moved years later west to Butler Avenue. I was assigned to the morning watch which placed me on the midnight shift. Roll Call was around 10 pm and EOW (End of Watch) was around 6:45 am as best I can remember some 56 years later. As a rookie officer just out of college, I was assigned to veteran officers who showed me the ropes of police work on the West Side of Los Angeles. The friendly and well-maintained neighborhoods of Pacific Palisades, Bel Air, Brentwood, Mandeville Canyon and Westwood Village were all nice places to work with friendly neighborhoods and business owners who all appreciated the men in blue.

At that time in LAPD history only male officers were permitted to work in the field in black and white police vehicles. Female officers were assigned to detective and administrative duties. As years passed, women would move into all field and command positions in the department and throughout law enforcement agencies in America.

There were "Pin Maps" in the Roll Call Room that marked the various crime trends occurring in the division from Robbery, Burglary, GTA and the rest of the crimes that impacted the Westside community.

We used paper and No. 2 pencils to complete crime reports and document the crimes in the division. The crime reports were then duplicated by records

Wildfire Resilience and the Role of Public Water

Coauthors: Joel Metzger, General Manager, Utica Water and Power Authority

David Pedersen, General Manager, Las Virgenes Municipal Water District

The recent wildfires that devastated the greater Los Angeles area have left an indelible mark on our hearts and minds. More than 10,000 homes were tragically lost, and entire communities are now grappling with unimaginable loss and uncertainty. On behalf of the water managers across the state, we extend our deepest sympathy to all those affected by this catastrophe. We recognize the importance of learning lessons from these events to better prepare for wildfire response across the state, while also understanding how public water systems are designed and their limitations in the context of wildfire response.

Public water systems are the lifeblood of our communities, providing clean and reliable water to homes, businesses, and public facilities. However, these systems are not designed to serve as the primary resource for wildfires, especially fighting large-scale, wind-driven events. Local water systems are designed to reliably provide water for everyday needs and effectively support local firefighting efforts in emergencies such as a single large structure fire. No local water system can single-handedly address the immense demands of a wildfire like the Palisades and Eaton Fire that require thousands of personnel, equipment, and aerial resources. Understanding these limits helps us better plan and prepare as a community.

No local water system can single-handedly address the immense demands of a wildfire like the Palisades or Eaton Fire.

A critical factor in wildfire preparedness is addressing the wildland-urban interface (WUI). The WUI is the area where human development meets and intermingles with natural landscapes, creating zones of increased wildfire risk. Managing these areas is essential to reducing wildfire damage. Whether in Northern California or Southern California, taking steps to manage vegetation, maintain defensible space, enforce building and fire codes, and ensure access for emergency responders in the WUI can significantly mitigate wildfire risks.

During a wildfire, water systems face extraordinary challenges. Firefighters may tap into hydrants at multiple locations simultaneously, causing water pressure to drop across the system. High demand can drain storage tanks and overwhelm pumping capacities, further

Operation Gratitude Steps Up to Help Wildfire Victims

By Sharman Borncamp

The recent Palisades and Eaton fires have had a significant impact on Los Angeles. Many of us in Encino (including this writer) were under evacuation orders for over a week as brave fire fighters held the line at Mulholland Drive, and law enforcement officers and the National Guard protected our homes.

While numerous organizations have stepped up to help and show their appreciation to first responders, Operation Gratitude (www.operationgratitude.com) has been at the forefront of saying "Thank You" for over 20 years.

Founder Carolyn Blashek started the organization in her Encino home in 2003 in response to the 9/11 attacks in New York. She realized that when men and women put themselves in the "line of fire," they need to know that someone cares. That's when Operation Gratitude was born.

Carolyn was one of the evacuees from the Encino Hills, as were many other Operation Gratitude volunteers, all extremely grateful for the first responders and the National Guard soldiers who fought so valiantly to protect their homes. Operation Gratitude immediately stepped into high gear, responding to the wildfires with collection drives of product and delivering needed energy drinks and snacks to the heroes on the frontlines as the wildfires raged.

Operation Gratitude now encompasses Americans all over the country working to ensure that all who serve feel appreciated. It is one of the largest and most impactful non-profits in the country for hands-on volunteerism in support of first responders, deployed military, military families and veterans.

Carolyn is on the Board of Operation Gratitude, and the mission continues to support "Those Who Serve." From a deep personal perspective, Carolyn is additionally grateful to the National Guard Armory in Van Nuys, which was Operation Gratitude's home for 13 years when the organization outgrew her living room.

Monday through Friday, and one weekend day a month, Operation Gratitude volunteers are working to assemble care packages to say "Thank You" to our first responder and military communities. Anyone over the age of 13 is welcome and encouraged to volunteer. Register and get more information by visiting operationgratitude.com.

Financial support is also needed at this time. Show your appreciation and honor ALL first responders, right now and throughout the year.

Operation Gratitude is located at 19748 Dearborn Street in Chatsworth.

Fake it Until You Make It at Mark Taper Forum

The bold comedy Fake It Until You Make It is on stage at the Mark Taper Forum at the Music Center January 29 through March 9.

The world premiere from Los Angeles-based playwright, Larissa FastHorse and director Michael John Garcés, is about being whoever you want to be, even when it's not who you are. In her uproarious new comedy, a collision of friends and foes within the non-profit sector sets the stage for a whirlwind of competition, chaos, and comedic revelation.

Meet Wynona, the Native American proprietor of N.O.B.U.S.H., and River, her white counterpart at Indigenous Nations Soaring. Their escalating rivalry ensnares colleagues and bystanders, leading to the unraveling of secrets that highlight the absurdities of ambition and authenticity. Amidst the laughter, genuine connections form, emphasizing the value of unexpected paths to success. Fake It Until You Make It takes an absurd look at what defines who we are, and the lengths some people will go through to change it.

A member of the Sicangu Lakota Nation, and author of the Broadway comedy, The Thanksgiving Play, FastHorse's new work shines a hilarious light on 'shifters' who exist in a world of self-determined identity.

The Music Center is thrilled to welcome Noah Bean (David Mamet's Romance), Eric Stanton Betts (Holiday Down Under), Julie Bowen (Modern Family), Tonantzin Carmelo (La Brea), Brandon Delsid (This is Me…Now), and Dakota Ray Hebert (Marvel's Echo) to the Mark Taper Forum!

Jesse Eisenberg and Keiran Culkin star in heart-warming movie.

A Real Pain is a Poignant Take on Grief, Identity and Family Connection

By Katie Sterling

It's a true joy when a movie manages to surprise you. Not in a plot twist kind of way, but in a way that has you thinking of the narrative long after the credits have rolled. In Jesse Eisenberg's directorial co-production with Poland, the story manages to tug at the heartstrings, while subtly encouraging the viewer to take a look at their own heritage and the role grief plays in it. It's at times humorous, uncomfortable, loving and reflective. A Real Pain manages to perfectly encapsulate what it means to be family and how understanding the past is critical to living in the present.

Written and directed by Eisenberg, A Real Pain follows two cousins as they reunite to visit their grandmother's hometown in Poland. David (Eisenberg) and Benji (Kieran Culkin) couldn't be more opposite – in their lifestyles, in their personalities and in the way they view their surroundings. David is the strait-laced, play-by-the-rules individual who has a steady job and a family waiting for him back home. Conversely, Benji is an emotional, live each day as it comes, free spirit living in someone else's basement. Naturally, they both want to be like each other but as their adventure unfolds, it becomes clear they never can be.

With the recent passing of their grandmother, the cousins decide to take the money left to them and travel to Poland to learn more about her legacy. While the cousins are so close in age they joke they could be brothers, it's Benji who had the strongest relationship with their grandma and is clearly struggling to understand what life now means without her in it. It's a heavy trip not only because of their recent loss, but because much of their grandmother's story centers on surviving the Holocaust. To truly understand their surroundings, the two join a tour group that includes the guide James (Will Sharpe) and four other travelers (Jennifer Grey, Kurt Egiywan, Liza Sadovy and Daniel Oreskes). Each has a personal reason for wanting to take this tour and while they start as strangers, it becomes almost inevitable that they start to bond over shared trauma.

As the tour unfolds, real conversations are had and raw emotions come to light largely through the complex character that is Benji. He's the type of guy that can befriend anyone, largely allowing his flaws to not necessarily go unnoticed, but not be troublesome. Therefore, when he has emotional outbursts regarding aspects of their tour,

The story manages to tug at the heartstrings, while subtly encouraging the viewer to take a look at their own heritage and the role grief plays in it.

it's difficult for those around him to grapple with the extreme change in emotion. He's clearly a troubled individual who largely masks his pain with humor and the monologue. David trying to understand his cousin is one of the strongest moments of the film. After all, who doesn't have that family member that you just can't make sense of? The one who you love so much, but whose life is so drastically different than yours, the only thing you necessarily have in common is some shared DNA.

It's a heavy film, but presented in such a delicate manner. Poland is filmed beautifully, city shots set against delicate classical music almost in a complete foil to the complicated emotions each cousin is grappling with. Each actor gives an amazing performance, but it's clear why Culkin is the frontrunner to win an Oscar in his category.

Pain is complex and grief can at times be so all-encompassing, those around might not even know you're struggling. A Real Pain perfectly encapsulates the complexity of this. As evident by their grandmother's story, grief is a large part of life and while you might not welcome it, it's a valuable component to connection. The focus on family, its complexities and the nature of understanding each other's struggles, is what makes A Real Pain a true joy to watch.

A Real Pain is currently streaming on Hulu.

Teaching Students "History Through Art" With the David Labkovski Project

Holocaust Remembrance Day was this past Monday, reminding us of the horrors of WWII and the importance of fighting against hate.

Locally the David Labkovski Project goes from school to school with artwork depicting life during the Holocaust, painted by David Labkovski about his life as a prisoner in Siberia.

In December, 8th grade students from the Multicultural Learning Center in Canoga Park were docents at the exhibit "Documenting History Through Art."

The David Labkovski Project spent a semester in the classroom educating these students about life before, during and after the Holocaust. The program addressed antisemitism and empowered students to educate their peers on the harm of prejudice and hatred.

The event at the Canoga Park Youth Art Center was attended by over 15 community leaders, city officials and LAPD officers.

At the opening students read each other's poetry written in response to David Labkovski's art and acted as guides for the exhibit which they had curated.

Students in grades eight to 12 can join the David Labkovski Project's Student Docent and Leadership Program.

They complete seven one-hour virtual training sessions, engage with Labkovski's art and the historical context of the artwork, learn to critically read art from a historical and personal perspective, and collaborate with students from other schools.

Summer training registration is open; the application deadline is May 11 to participate in the training, offered for seven Sundays from 10 to 11 am.

Students interested in becoming docents, educating exhibit visitors about the Holocaust, curating an exhibit and earning community service hours should email Resa Nikol, DLP Education Diretor, at resa@davidlabkovskiproject.org.

After a Wildfire, What Stays in Our Air

By Dr. Imran Shariaf

Wildfires significantly impact health by exposure to air pollution caused by smoke and release of harmful particulate matter and gases.

Fire smoke causes the release of a range of toxic compounds and gases, including carbon monoxide, hydrogen cyanide, volatile organic compounds, particulate matter, and acids like hydrochloric acid. Fire smoke also produces carcinogens.

Particulate matters in wildfires can irritate the lungs and cause breathing problems and worsen chronic conditions such as emphysema, asthma and pulmonary fibrosis.

Exposure to wildfires can also worsen cardiovascular diseases, cognitive impairment, increase emergency room visits, and can trigger autoimmune diseases such as rheumatoid arthritis and systemic lupus erythmatosus.

You can protect your health during wildfires by keeping the windows closed, staying indoors, using air purifiers (HEPA), avoiding too much outdoor activity, wearing N-95 masks outdoors, keeping your home, cars and pets clean and monitoring the air quality index.

Nighttrek Report: What to See in the February Sky

By Neill Simmons

The highlight of February comes on Wednesday night, February 5, when the Pleiades Star Cluster is covered by our Moon after sunset. At that time, the Moon will move slowly in front of these bright stars. After two hours the Moon will be on the other side of this star cluster. This event can be seen with the naked eye, however binoculars will make this more special. The Pleiades Star Cluster is located in the Taurus constellation. It actually contains over 1000 stars but only six are visible to the naked eye.

On Saturday night, February 1, look west for the trio made up of the planet Venus, the thin beautiful crescent Moon, and the planet Saturn all together making a straight line in the west.

On February 25, the Moon will not be visible, but the planet Mercury will be next to Saturn that night. A rare event will happen this month when five planets will be visible with the naked eye. Mercury, Venus, Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn will make up this "Planetary Parade." Venus is usually the easiest to spot because it is the brightest planet in the night sky.

Mark your calendar for Thursday night, February 6, when the giant planet Jupiter and the Moon appear very near each other in the night sky. This is called a conjunction. Then on Sunday, the 9th, the Moon and the red planet Mars will be in a conjunction. These two events will be great sights.

February 12 brings one of the smallest full Moons of the year. This Moon is called the "Snow Moon." This micro Moon happens when the Moon is the farthest away from Earth by about an extra 15,000 miles. Fun Fact: The Moon moves its own width every hour.

The famous constellation Orion is at its best in the south after dark. Our astronomers are keeping a close eye on Orion's left shoulder star, better known as " Betelgeuse." Some are waiting for a supernova explosion which can happen in the next 100,000 years. If you can get away from the city lights, where it is very dark, a portion of the Milky Way can be seen in the Orion constellation.

Make sure to look below Orion to see the brightest star in the night, Sirius. Each night when it is low near the horizon, Sirius twinkles in three colors: white, red, and blue. This is fun to see. Astronomers say Sirius shifts through every color of the rainbow when the air is unstable or windy. Sirius is one of the six bright stars that make up the giant "Winter Hexagon."

Binocular Target: The planet Mars is at its closest to Earth now. Try to spot the two polar ice caps made of water, ice and dry ice.

Creative Marketing of the Calabasas Commerce Center

By James R. Bozajian

The image above served as the cover of a marketing brochure from the Ahmanson Commercial Development Company, advertising the new "Calabasas Commerce Center." The brochure dates from circa 1990.

The Calabasas Commerce Center is an 18-acre business park consisting of seven buildings containing some 300,000 square feet of space. The structures are situated along both sides of Mureau Road, right where it intersects with Las Virgenes Road in Malibu Canyon. The Calabasas Commerce Center is probably best known for being home to Calabasas City Hall from 1992 to 2008.

Almost assuredly incorporating a stock photo that has nothing to do with Calabasas per se, it is highly unlikely a similar visual would be used today. But such is one of the things that makes these kinds of vintage advertisements so amusing.

Thank you to my colleague and fellow hoarder Dennis Washburn, Mayor Emeritus, who retained this document for us to enjoy many years later.

It is highly unlikely a similar visual would be used today. But such is one of the things that makes these kinds of vintage ads so amusing.

James R. Bozajian has served on the Calabasas City Council since 1997 and is a member of the Calabasas Las Virgenes Historical Society. He can be reached at jbozajian@cityofcalabasas.com.

personnel on A.B. Dick Machines and forwarded to detectives to investigate and hopefully arrest the "suspect" and solve the various reported crimes.

There were no cell phones, Internet, computers, DNA, video or any of the tools law enforcement uses today to investigate crimes.

With the lack of today's vast range of technology, police officers were able to investigate and arrest suspects and maintain order in society that mostly respected the laws of the land.

Back in the day, West Los Angeles Division was bordered by Mulholland Drive on the north, the Santa Monica Freeway on the south, La Cienega Blvd on the east and Pacific Coast Highway on the west - a huge portion of Los Angeles that was heavily populated and included Brentwood, Pacific Palisades and a number of other expensive neighborhoods including the sprawling UCLA campus.

Over the years, there were floods and at times massive mud flows invading homes along Mandeville Canyon and other West L.A. hillsides. Other than that, the Bel Air Fire in 1961 fueled by 100 mph Santa Ana winds was the worst disaster on the Westside. Nearly 500 homes destroyed, including those of many Hollywood celebrities.

Years later the area has returned to the once proud community with many changes in the building codes as time passed. For example, wood shingle roofs were banned for all new construction and strong brush control policies were established to protect property in the future.

On January 7 a major fire broke out in the West Los Angeles Division and was driven by near 100-mph winds. The winds consumed thousands of homes and business structures and drove thousands of families from their homes and business locations.

Only on January 27th of this week were all the displaced residents finally permitted to return to their property and closely examine the destruction to their homes and business structures. Many locations have turned to ashes. All personal belongings are gone.

I worked the fire area along with hundreds of LAPD, LAFD, LASO, City, County, State and Federal personnel.

The loss of life and property is beyond belief. As we move forward the recovery will continue along with the nightmares shared by fire victims.

I pray that God will bring light and comfort to those impacted by the fire and the losses they have suffered. May the City, County, State and Federal governments come together and provide the assistance the victims desperately need and deserve at this time of desperation.

Guest Editorial from Las Virgenes Municipal Water District

reducing system performance. Additionally, power outages—a common occurrence during major wind events and wildfires—can temporarily disable pumps and other critical infrastructure, further complicating efforts to maintain adequate water delivery.

Recognizing the limitations of public water systems underscores the importance of proactive community and water agency actions to enhance wildfire preparedness and resilience holistically. Here are several steps that could make a significant difference:

Defensible Space and Community Planning: Homeowners and communities should prioritize creating defensible spaces around properties by clearing flammable vegetation, using fire-resistant building materials, and maintaining accessible fire lanes and evacuation routes.

System Redundancy and Backup Power: Water agencies can invest in emergency backup power generators for pumping stations and enhance system redundancy to ensure water delivery during power outages.

Strategic Water Storage: Increasing local water storage capacity can help maintain adequate reserves for emergency use. Storage tanks located in fire-prone areas can be equipped with connections that allow firefighters to draw water directly.

Emergency Coordination and Interconnections: Water agencies and fire departments must work closely to develop and rehearse emergency response plans. Real-time communication during wildfire events can help prioritize water distribution and address critical needs. Further, emergency interconnections between water systems can allow water to be moved from areas where it is available to those where it is needed.

Public Education: Residents should understand the limitations of water systems during wildfires, be encouraged to take personal responsibility for wildfire preparedness, and harden their homes to reduce fire risk.

Vegetation Management and Fuel Modification: Collaborating with state and federal agencies to reduce fuel loads in the wildland-urban interface, chaparral, and forests can mitigate the severity of wildfires.

Review of Local Fire Codes: Local fire codes establish the design criteria for public water systems in providing fire protection. Conducting a review of the local fire codes for this purpose would help to ensure that any lessons-learned are appropriately incorporated.

Investing in Innovation and Resilient Infrastructure: Water agencies must embrace innovative solutions to improve water system resilience. This includes deploying advanced technology for real-time system monitoring, enhancing storage and delivery capabilities, and pursuing state and federal investments to bolster water infrastructure against the impacts of climate change. State and federal funding will be key to achieving these goals.

Policy Advocacy: Balanced and science-based policies are vital to ensure that water management strategies address the needs of all Californians. Collaborative efforts among state, local, and federal stakeholders can create more effective frameworks for managing wildfire risks and water resources sustainably.

The recent wildfires continue to be a powerful reminder of how personal preparedness is critical. Learn more about the role of public water agencies and how you can prepare, stay informed, and access resources by visiting: acwa.com/wildfire-resources

The tragic losses in greater Los Angeles serve as a stark reminder that we must remain vigilant and proactive in preparing for wildfire events. Public water systems play a vital role in community safety, but they are only one part of the broader solution. By working together - as water agencies, firefighters, homeowners, and policymakers - we can build more resilient communities and better protect lives and property in the face of future wildfires.

Our thoughts remain with the communities of Pacific Palisades and Altadena as they begin the long journey of recovery. Let us honor their resilience by taking meaningful steps to ensure a safer future for all.

Donations to Local Fire Station

teachers, firefighters often pay directly out of their own pockets when items need to be replaced, updated or repaired as an extremely tight budget doesn't leave a lot of funds left over. The donations thus far have been greatly appreciated, but what Station #83 (as well as most local stations) need right now are monetary donations. Donating to the LAFD Foundation provides essential equipment, training supplies and station support to supplement scarce city resources. While food has been the main donation thus far, a monetary fund can continue to aid the station in months to come, especially if future emergencies arise.

The best way to support Station #83 is to visit supportlafd.kindful.com or scan the QR code on the cover. While the campaign is set to the general LAFD Wildfire Emergency Fund, you can scroll down to donate to a specific station. Whether it be a one-time or recurring donation, the funds will be properly channeled to spend in a manner that will best support your local station.

Additionally, Station #83 is selling one-of-a-kind t-shirts to raise funds for one of their own, Darren Lloyd. Despite having to evacuate his own home with his pregnant wife, Lloyd returned to action and fought tirelessly to save neighbors and homes, even volunteering at shelters long after his shift was over. His selflessness and courageous actions are only a small part of why Captain Jun is recommending Lloyd for the Presidential Medal of Valor. Anyone interested in purchasing the $20 t-shirt can acquire one at Station #83 (4960 Balboa Blvd.) during normal business hours.

For those who put their life on the line daily, and saved Encino from potential destruction, a donation is a small but meaningful way to give back. Supporting your local fire station means supporting your community and at times like these, connection is appreciated more than ever.

If you cannot afford an attorney, you may be eligible for free legal services from a nonprofit legal services program. You can locate these nonprofit groups at the California Legal Services Web site (www.lawhelpcalifornia.org), the California Courts Online Self-Help Center (www.courtinfo.ca.gov/selfhelp), or by contacting your local court or county bar association.

Tiene 30 DÍAS DE CALENDARIO después de que le entreguen esta citación y papeles legales para presentar una respuesta por escrito en esta corte y hacer que se entregue una copia al demandante. Una carta o una llamada telefónica no lo protegen. Su respuesta por escrito tiene que estar en formato legal correcto si desea que procesen su caso en la corte. Es posible que haya un formulario que usted pueda usar para su respuesta. Puede encontrar estos formularios de la corte y más información en el Centro de Ayuda de las Cortes de California (www.sucorte.ca.gov), en la biblioteca de leyes de su condado o en la corte que le quede más cerca. Si no puede pagar la cuota de presentación, pida al secretario de la corte que le dé un formulario de exención de pago de cuotas. Si no presenta su respuesta a tiempo, puede perder el caso por incumplimiento y la corte le podrá quitar su sueldo, dinero y bienes sin más advertencia.
Hay otros requisitos legales. Es recomendable que llame a un abogado inmediatamente. Si no conoce a un abogado, puede llamar a un servicio de remisión a abogados. Si no puede pagar a un abogado, es posible que cumpla con los requisitos para obtener servicios legales gratuitos de un programa de servicios legales sin fines de lucro. Puede encontrar estos grupos sin fines de lucro en el sitio web de California Legal Services, (www.lawhelpcalifornia.org), en el Centro de Ayuda de las Cortes de California, (www.sucorte.ca.gov) o poniéndose en contacto con la corte o el colegio de abogados locales.
