News in Brief

Anti-Semitic Graffiti Found in West Valley

Anti-semitic graffiti was found in the West Valley during the weekend of August 9. It was painted around the Israeli-American Council Shepher Community Center in Woodland Hills, as well as at the Orange Line Busway, along the L.A. River and by the 101 Freeway. Councilman Bob Blunmnfield's office immediately requested to have the hate filled graffiti removed and West Valley Alliance quickly went to work. Several neighbors bought paint to cover the images. Blumenfield said, "Anti-semitism is real, dangerous, and horrifyingly common. Hate has no place in our community and attacks on anyone's religion, race, ethnicity, or beliefs are completely unacceptable. I have been in touch with leaders at IAC, LAPD, ADL and others about these incidents. I also spoke to community members to ensure that the City is doing everything possible both to protect residents and to hold those responsible accountable. The hateful actions of the graffiti perpetrators were meant to intimidate an entire community. Communities should be a safe place where no one has to look over their shoulder simply for being who they are. I remain committed to combating anti-semitism and all forms of hate in the West Valley and throughout our city."

Rams Second Most Valuable NFL Franchise

Woodland Hills-based Los Angeles Rams football team has just been named the second most valuable franchise in the NFL. They are worth $10.43 billion, behind only the Dallas Cowboys, who are worth $12.8 billion. Their valuation in 2024 was $7.79 billion - also second in the NFL at the time. The team moved to Los Angeles in 2016 and hired coach Sean McVay in 2017. They scored two Super Bowl wins in 2000 (23-16 against the Tennessee Titans) and 2022 (23-20 against the Cincinnati Bengals. The only other team worth more than $10 billion is the New York Giants.

King Gillette Staff Knew of Tree Decay

A day before a child was killed by a falling tree branch at King Gillette Ranch, staff was warned by a tree care company there was decay in the large oak.

Eight-year-old Lamar McGlothurn was part of a group from Camp Wildcraft gathered under the tree. He died of blunt force crush injuries and three others were also injured.

Text messages between the tree company and park manager Scott Hughes show the warning, and the fact that park employees believed the tree had been serviced. A 2018 tree risk assessment by Jan. C. Scow Consulting Arborists found many trees on the property did have risk of failure.

The incident is under investigation by the Sheriff's Department and the municipal law firm Richards Watson and Gershon.

Questions About New Cemetery Answered by Owner

Dignity Memorial saw the story in Valley News Group's papers last week on the purchase of the Boething Property and plans to use the 32-acres as a cemetery. They reached out with the following statement and answers to the many questions asked by our readers.

"Dignity Memorial is planning a new cemetery and funeral home to serve families in the greater Los Angeles area at the current Boething Tree Nursery site in Woodland Hills," said Aaron Green, project spokesperson. "We understand this represents a significant change for the neighborhood. We value being a good neighbor and look forward to open conversations as we move forward with our plans. We're committed to creating a facility that respects both the families we'll serve and the community we'll join."

Drunk Driver Creates Havoc on Ventura Blvd.

Chaos ensued in Woodland Hills Thursday as a drunk driver crashed into several cars on Lenora Drive just north of Ventura Blvd., flipping over one car and sending one man to the hospital.

The Ford Explorer that ran into them took off on three wheels, having lost one in the crash, and fled down Ventura Blvd.

It almost ran into a man in a wheelchair crossing an intersection, causing the man to leap from his mobility scooter to avoid being hit.

A second collision occurred when the Explorer smashed into the front of Leo and Lily restaurant, located at 22420 Ventura Blvd. on a small side street just south of Ventura.

Witnesses said at that point the driver took off on foot, leaving the smoking car stuck in the building. No one was injured in the crash, as the restaurant had just closed at 3 pm.

The unidentified suspect was then seen 90 minutes later at 7-11. He was arrested on suspicion of driving under the influence when he left the 7-11, after purchasing a six-pack of beer.

Guest Editorial:

Let Us Build a Smarter Los Angeles, Starting with Our Own Backyard

By Barri Worth Girvan

Across the West San Fernando Valley, families feel the squeeze of rising housing prices more acutely than ever. Once-affordable neighborhoods now seem out of reach for teachers, healthcare workers, and public servants—the backbone of our community. The dream of homeownership, or even stable, reasonably priced rental housing, is slipping away as costs climb and available units dwindle.

This crisis is not merely economics; it threatens the fabric of our neighborhoods, uprooting families and disconnecting communities. We must reimagine how we use our land and resources, with imagination and resolve to build a more inclusive future.

Los Angeles' housing crisis is not for lack of space—it is often due to a failure of imagination and collective will. The familiar narrative that there isn't enough room for new housing prevents us from recognizing opportunities throughout our city. Vacant lots, neglected public buildings, and underused municipal spaces are not signs of scarcity, but untapped potential. While hardworking families are priced out of the neighborhoods they helped build, land sits idle because we have not yet mustered the vision to reimagine our surroundings.

Some of the most promising prospects lie in land owned by the City, State, County, and Los Angeles Unified School District. Public land represents a trust—a resource to serve community needs. When we convert a closed LADWP facility or revive a vacant municipal parcel, we do more than balance budgets; we restore dignity and purpose to our neighborhoods.

Imagine a shuttered campus transformed into the centerpiece of a revitalized neighborhood, or an under-utilized government warehouse repurposed into mixed use housing with new, desirable apartments combined with a locally-owned market. Larger tracts of underused municipal property can become homes clustered around a library or a park for community gatherings and green spaces where children play. These ideas aren't far-fetched. They are practical, respectful of our history, and attuned to our future needs.

The right vision for development in Los Angeles centers on supporting working families and ensuring core services are available close to home. To that end, prioritizing middle-class workforce housing on unused government land is essential.

By integrating homes with green spaces, libraries, and vital public services, we can create safe, clean neighborhoods we can enjoy that nourish wellbeing and foster genuine connection. To unlock this potential, City Hall must embrace smart policies and institutional accountability. We cannot tolerate hesitation and neglect.

No Angeleno should be forced to traverse the region simply to find an affordable place to live or relocate altogether. We must commit to building a city where those who educate our children, care for our sick, and keep our streets safe can call Los Angeles home.

Addressing soaring housing costs starts with vision, and a promise to use every resource at our disposal to create a city that works for everyone.

Barri Worth Girvan is the former Director of Community Affairs for L.A. County Supervisor Lindsey Horvath, and a candidate for L.A.City Council's Third District.

Sip and Savor at Fogo de Chao Special Wine Dinners

Dine and savor world-class wines at Fogo de Chao's curated wine dinners.

The four-course dinners are paired with a selection of wines from a premium vineyard, with a speaker from that winery talking about the history of the vineyard, the winemakers and of course the wines themselves.

The authentic Brazilian steakhouse features an open churrasco grill showcasing their gaucho chefs demonstrating the culinary art of churrasco: expertly fire-roasting, butchering and serving meats tableside.

A recent dinner featured Daou Vineyard, with the meal chosen by Fogo de Chao's general manager Steven Marshall.

The Daou Portfolio boasts world-class Bordeaux-style wines from Paso Robles. With the Daou Estate in the Adelaida AVA, the wines are an incredible reflection of the stunning terroir of Paso Robles.

Sommelier and Daou representative James Betts paired each course with a delightful Daou vintage.

The first course of warm lentil soup and butternut squash and arugula salad with a jumbo shrimp was served with a Daou rosé, which was a light complement to the lime vinaigrette of the salad.

The second course of a jumbo lump crab cake was served with Daou's Pessimist Red Blend, a complex wine with ample aromas of blueberry, boysenberry, plum, and strawberry. Smoky notes of truffle and roasted coffee are accompanied by floral notes of lavender and lilac - a bold counterpart to the hearty crab cake.

Fogo's famous picana was the third course, a Brazilian-style top sirloin cut with a thick fat cap, lightly seasoned with rock salt, and grilled to perfection. It was served with amazing lobster mashed potatoes, and accompanied by Daou's rich Reserve Seventeen Forty Red Blend. Inspired by the classic cuvées of Bordeaux, Seventeen Forty is a Cabernet Sauvignon-driven wine with harmonious complements of Cabernet Franc, Merlot and Petit Verdot. This wine is named for the centuries-old Spanish monastery bell that today hangs at the winery, signifying their passion for legacy and heritage.

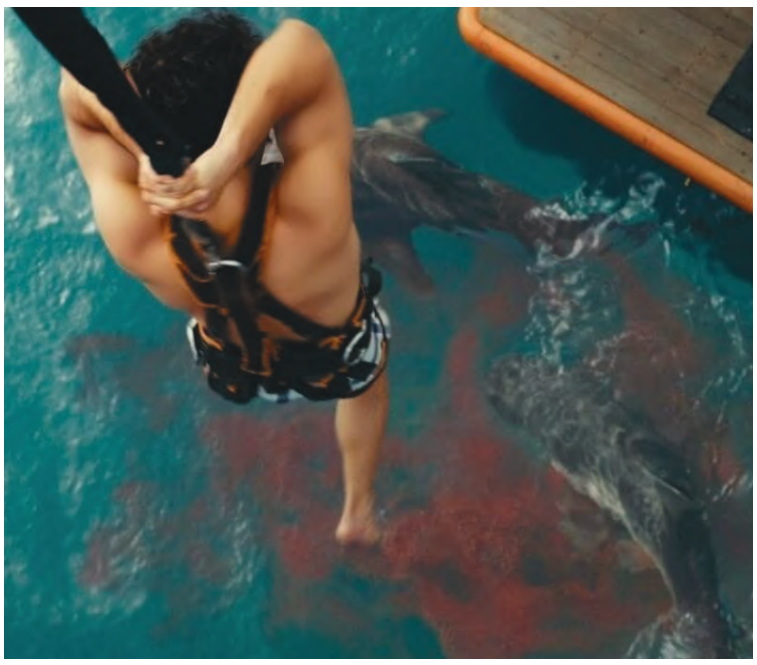
The four-course dinners from the Brazilian steakhouse are paired with a selection of wines from a premium vineyard.

The fourth course featured Fogo's claim to fame - since it is a steakhouse - their Wagyu porterhouse and lamb chops, served again with the delicious lobster mashed. The strong meats were paired with a strong Reserve Cabernet Sauvignon, with a heady nose delivering fruit-forward aromas of blackberry, raspberry and plum with traces of licorice, thyme, vanilla and cherry.

Topping off the evening was coffee and a chocolate mousse cheesecake layered with ganache and graham cookie crumble.

These evenings are full of friends, fine dining and fine wines. Upcoming wine dinners include Cakebread Cellars wine dinner on Thursday, October 9, at 7 pm, and Wine & Wagyu with VIK wines on Thursday, November 6, at 6:30 pm.

Fogo de Chao is located at 6263 Topanga Canyon Blvd. in the Q Apartments building. For reservations for the wine evening call (213) 282-6699 or visit fogodechao.com.



Dangerous Animals: A Shark Movie That Lacks Bite

By Katie Sterling

Have you really enjoyed summer to the fullest if you haven't indulged in a truly ridiculous shark movie?!

While Spielberg celebrated the 50th anniversary of Jaws this year (arguably, one of the most classic summer films in rotation), nothing beats a questionable shark thriller that seems to have emerged from the depths of a production cannon.

After all, summer is the prime season for getting into that seasonal spirit. It's the time for dipping your toes into the sand! The time to crest each crashing wave under a cloudless blue sky! The time to fight for your life against a serial killer with a concerning fascination with sharks! Excuse me, now? Sharks and a serial killer?! It's too ludicrous to fathom, and yet, Dangerous Animals dares to.

How would you rather die, at the hands of a serial killer or being ravaged by carnivorous sea creatures? It's the Sophie's Choice of the sea and frankly, these victims don't have a choice. That's all thanks to Tucker (Jai Courtney), an Aussie local that owns a business allowing tourists to swim with the sharks. Little do those unsuspecting victims know that Tucker has a deeper intention in luring these young kids to the sea. After all, every good villain needs an origin story, right? Tucker was the survivor of a shark attack at a young age and since his miraculous survival, he has come to revere sharks as almost God-like entities. Out of respect, and a twisted sense of admiration, Tucker provides a routine sacrifice to the sharks in the form of drugged up women he harnesses above the ocean before dropping them into chum-infested waters. Subtle!

Tucker is the type of character whose personality can change on the dime, quite charming until an inconvenience quickly alters his demeanor into something sinister. However, with every villain we also need a spunky heroine who won't go down without a fight. Enter nomadic surfer Zephyr (Hassie Harrison), an American transplant that has no family ties and drifts wherever the next wave will take her. (Also known as the perfect murder victim since no one will even notice she's missing.)

But what Tucker doesn't take into account is Zephyr's fling from the night before, Moses (Josh Heuston), whose puppy-love sets him on a quest to find her after noticing her abandoned van at the beach.

Like any captor-captive thriller, the majority of the film is spent with Zephyr trying to escape the clutches of a maniac. She quickly learns his intentions after being forced to watch a previous victim fall to the sharks and God help her, she will do anything in her power to escape. Which, horrifically, includes her chewing off her thumb to free herself from the handcuffs. Needless to say, there are certainly some gory moments (shark bites are messy!), but the movie relies more on physical combat than suspenseful underwater moments. Which frankly…is a bummer.

For a serial killer shark movie, there's actually very little shark involved. Thanks to most of the action taking place on Tucker's boat, the sharks serve as more of a guest star than a leading role. Granted, Dangerous Animals alludes as much to the evils of human as much as sharks, but this movie needs...more sharks!

In the spectrum of shark movies, Dangerous Animals is a bit more elevated than you would imagine and less corny than you would hope it to. There are definitely jump scare moments and moments that will have you rolling your eyes, but at the end of it all, Dangerous Animals lacks bite.

Dangerous Animals is currently available to rent or buy on Amazon Prime.

Ten Effective Tips to Communicate with a Loved One Who Has Dementia

By Ronda Wilkin

Dementia affects memory, language, and cognition, making conversation difficult. However, with patience, empathy, and simple strategies, you can create more positive and meaningful interactions.

1. Keep it simple and direct. Use short sentences and everyday words. Skip long or complex explanations. If they don't understand, rephrase rather than repeat.

2. Be patient. Processing slows down as dementia progresses. Allow extra time for your loved one to think and respond—resist rushing.

3. Avoid correcting or criticizing. Challenging their recollection often causes frustration. Unless safety is involved, let inaccurate comments pass and validate their feelings.

4. Focus on emotions, not facts. What they feel matters more than accuracy. Acknowledge their emotions before moving on.

5. Use non-verbal communication. A gentle touch, calm expression, or steady eye contact often conveys empathy more effectively than words.

6. Minimize distractions. Turn off TVs or radios and move to quiet areas so they can focus better.

7. Stay positive and reassuring. Anxiety is common. A calm tone and reassuring words help them feel safe and valued.

8. Ask one question at a time. Multiple questions can overwhelm. Frame questions simply and where possible, use yes/no formats.

9. Embrace their reality. Rather than correcting misremembered details, join them in their world. Validation techniques foster connection.

10. Avoid "elderspeak." Using baby talk or overly simplified language comes from an ageist mindset. Speak respectfully and clearly, without infantilizing your loved one.

Applying these strategies to simplify speech, work "with" rather than "against" their reality. Emphasizing empathy, can significantly improve communication. By staying patient and respectful, you will foster deeper connection, reduce stress for both of you, and honor their dignity.

Alzheimer's on the Rise: Timely Action Can Empower Families

Recent data reveals that over 7.2 million Americans aged 65 and older are living with Alzheimer's disease, representing nearly 11% of the senior population—a record high. In California, approximately 12% of residents over 65 are affected, placing the state among the top seven nationwide for prevalence.

Dignity Health is shining a light on the growing number of individuals and families affected by Alzheimer's disease, while emphasizing the importance of early detection and proactive steps toward brain health.

"Alzheimer's disease is not just a personal health issue; it's a growing public health crisis," said Liang Wang, MD, a neurologist at Dignity Health Northridge Hospital Medical Center. "Early recognition of symptoms can lead to interventions that may slow disease progression and improve you or your loved one's quality of life."

Recognizing Early Signs of Cognitive Decline:

√ Memory Loss: Disrupts daily life, especially forgetting recently learned information.

√ Challenges in Planning or Problem-Solving: Difficulty following familiar recipes or keeping track of monthly bills.

√ Confusion with Time or Place: Losing track of dates, seasons, and the passage of time.

√ Trouble Understanding Visual Images: Difficulty reading, judging distance, and determining color or contrast.

Early recognition of symptoms can lead to interventions that may slow disease progression √ Withdrawal from Work or Social Activities: Avoiding hobbies, social activities, or other engagements.

√ Trouble with people's names, especially familiar people like family and close friends.

Advancements in Detection and Prevention:

Emerging research underscores the role of lifestyle in brain health.

Adopting a Mediterranean diet rich in fruits, vegetables, whole grains, and healthy fats has been linked to a 31% reduction in the risk of cognitive impairment.

Additionally, new blood tests are showing promise in detecting Alzheimer's years before symptoms arise, paving the way for earlier interventions.

Salon Nuuvo Hosts 9th Annual Beach Cleanup

Salon Nuuvo proudly hosted its 9th Annual Beach Day on Monday, August 4, continuing a beloved tradition of community service and environmental advocacy.

This year's cleanup took place at Zuma Beach, Tower 4, in Malibu, where the salon's dedicated team worked together to collect an impressive 172 pounds of trash in just 60 minutes.

The day's haul included everything from small litter to unexpected large debris such as broken scooters and even photo mashers—a stark reminder of the environmental impact of improperly discarded items.

"Our annual beach cleanup is one of the most meaningful days of the year for us," said Raychel Harrison, founder and CEO of Salon Nuuvo. "It's a chance to come together outside the salon, give back to our beautiful coastline, and make a visible difference to our local beach. The amount of trash we collected this year shows why these efforts matter."

- Raychel Harrison

Over the past nine years, Salon Nuuvo's Beach Day has grown from a small team initiative to a core part of the salon's culture, blending team bonding with environmental advocacy. The event aligns with Salon Nuuvo's mission to not only create beauty inside the salon, but also contribute positively to the community and environment beyond its doors.

The salon encourages other local businesses and residents to get involved in similar efforts, whether through organized cleanups or small daily actions that help protect the coastline.

Founded in Calabasas, Salon Nuuvo is an award-winning, employee-based hair salon committed to education, hair artistry, and exceptional customer service experiences. In addition to its in-house academy and team-focused culture, Salon Nuuvo is dedicated to community engagement and sustainability initiatives, such as its annual beach cleanup tradition.

The salon is located at The Summit of Calabasas, 26777 Agoura Road. For more information or appointments call (818) 871-9441 or visit salonnuuvo.com.

Dignity Answers Questions About New Cemetery Next to Hidden Hills

its parent company are leading providers of funeral, cremation, and cemetery services. The families we serve trust us for professionalism, compassion, and attention to detail.

Traffic and Noise

Q: Will there be more traffic during funerals?

A: Funeral services are small and happen during midday hours, not during rush hour. You might notice a few more cars for a short time, but surrounding neighborhoods will see minimal impacts.

Q: Will there be construction noise?

A: Construction will only happen during approved daytime hours. We'll work closely with neighbors and elected officials to ensure we remain sensitive to impacts on surrounding communities, and to ensure they are informed of construction schedules.

Visual Impact

Q: What will it look like from my house?

A: Think of a park-like setting with trees, shrubs, and green lawns. We're planning landscaped buffers around the entirety of the property, thus neighbors and passersby will see greenery, not buildings or parking areas.

Q: Will there be fencing or landscaping?

A: Yes. There will be a mix of fencing and landscaping to create privacy, mark the property boundary, and keep the view pleasant.

Environmental Concerns

Q: Will it affect groundwater or cause flooding?

A: No. We have to meet strict environmental and drainage requirements before anything gets built. Those plans are reviewed and approved by the City agencies to make sure water flows safely and doesn't create runoff issues.

Q: Are chemicals used for embalming a risk?

A: No. Embalming is done indoors following strict safety rules. It doesn't pose a risk to the water, soil, or the surrounding neighborhood.

Q: Will there be a crematorium on site?

A: There is not a crematorium planned for the future cemetery.

Zoning and Notification

Q: Was the land zoned for this?

A: Yes. The property's zoning allows for a cemetery, among other more impactful uses. By utilizing the site for cemetery purposes, this prevents the site from being developed into a more dense or disruptive use and guarantees it as a quiet and green space.

Q: Why weren't we notified sooner?

A: Our plans for the property have been under development for some time, and we are still in the process of finalizing our plans for the site. We did not want to share plans that were incomplete, which could have created confusion if the plans were updated. We are committed to answering questions and sharing updates to ensure surrounding neighborhoods aren't in the dark.

Cultural/Personal Discomfort

Q: I'm uncomfortable living next to a cemetery. Can anything be done?

Think of a park-like setting with trees, shrubs, and green lawns. We're planning landscaped buffers around the entirety of the property, thus neighbors and passersby will see greenery, not buildings or parking areas.

Aaron Green, Spokesman

A: Our goal is to make the property a calm, beautiful, and respectful space. The landscaping, design, and upkeep will ensure the site blends into the neighborhood aesthetic as a peaceful and quiet green space.

Lighting and Hours

Q: Will there be nighttime lighting?

A: There will be no bright lights operating at the site at nighttime, though there will be smaller downlights for safety purposes. Any lighting will be soft, shielded, and directed downward to prevent spillage into neighboring properties.

Q: What are the hours of operation?

A: The grounds will be open during daylight hours. Funerals and other services are primarily daytime events with occasional nighttime activities such as evening services, memorials and visitations.

We're committed to being a good neighbor. If you have more questions, please reach out to: Aaron Green, President, The Afriat Consulting Group at aaron@afriat.com.

Piece of the Past:

Tarzana: A City Named After a Novel Idea

The West Valley has long been home to affluent stars and industry members looking for a quiet reprieve from the hustle of Hollywood.

Just a few miles over however, sits a city whose name seems to have originated from a classic character that rose to stardom thanks to the creative mind of author Edgar Rice Burroughs.

Tarzan, the famous literary character, swung from the vines into popular culture during 1912 in Burroughs' story Tarzan of the Apes. A feral child raised by apes turns into the adventurous king of the jungle, only to have civilization come calling when English explorers arrive on the island. Tarzan meets Jane and the story truly begins.

With the success of Tarzan and subsequent stories of his tale, Burroughs relocated to California in 1919 where he purchased a 550-acre estate from General Harrison Gray Otis, publisher of the Los Angeles Times. Burroughs promptly renamed the area "Tarzana Ranch" and was eager to transform the area into his own personal jungle oasis.

As expenses increased over the years, Burroughs attempted to sell off portions of his land albeit with little success. After moving out of the estate only five years later, Burroughs then transformed the main house into the clubhouse for his newest endeavor, El Caballero Country Club.

As the town continued to develop over the years into a thriving community, residents in the area voted to adopt the name "Tarzana" when the town was incorporated in 1928. While some thought the name was not befitting of the upper-middle-class community, the name stuck.

While Burroughs was one of the first authors to incorporate himself (allowing Tarzan to become global), in 1942, he switched careers to become one of the oldest war correspondants. Upon return from the South Pacific, Burroughs settled in Encino.

Burroughs died in Encino in 1950 and his ashes were spread in Tarzana under a tree in front of what still remains an office dedicated to his legacy.
